627 Colborne East, Brantford, Ontario
9:00 am - 3:00 pm (8:00 am Registration)

DR. JEAN CLINTON, BMus MD FRCP(C)

- Clinical Professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioural Neurosciences (Child Psychiatry division)
- Cross appointments in Pediatrics and Family Medicine at McMaster Children's Hospital
- Associate in Department of Child Psychiatry, University of Toronto and Sick Children's Hospital
- Senior Scientist at the Infant Child Health Lab at McMaster University
- Education Advisor to Premier of Ontario and Minister of Education 2014 to 2018

SUCCESS for Every Student

Topic Overview:

Dr. Jean Clinton has studied brain development in infants and children for many years. She will discuss the crucial role of relationships and connectedness to brain development. Her research indicates that children learn best in an environment that fosters relationships and acknowledges the interconnectivity between emotions, cognition, and language development.

This workshop will provide practical strategies for connecting with children reducing the need for correction and direction. In addition, Dr. Clinton will discuss and distinguish between reinforcement which encourages intrinsic versus extrinsic motivation. She will further help participants understand how and why to make emotional deposits in a child's "relationship piggy bank", and how this affects not only school performance, but all other relationships throughout the life of the child.

Learning Objectives:

- Define the crucial role of relationships and connectiveness to brain development
- Articulate how and why to make emotional deposits in a child's relationship piggy bank to benefit school performance and foster positive relationships

Dr. Jean Clinton BMus MD FRCP(C)

Dr. Jean Clinton is a renowned speaker who focusses on the importance of positive relationships for children's brain development. She advocates for a national system that promotes the well-being of children and their families through highly effective early learning environments.

Dr. Clinton has 30 years of experience as a consultant for programs supporting children and youth, and has received the Naomi Grant Award from the Canadian Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry for her dedication promoting early child development. Since 2013, she has been a Fellow in the Child Trauma Academy and the Zero to Three Academy. Dr. Clinton has served as an Education Advisor for the Minister of Education and the Premier of Ontario from 2014-2018.
